

FAKEBOOK INSTRUCTIONS

DIRECTIONS: Many famous people have public Facebook pages and Twitter accounts. Often times, they do not create these accounts but pay others to do so for them. Today you will be creating a fake Facebook profile for a figure from the golden age of Islam. You will be required to include many pieces of information that will help fans of your figure get to know them better. Your information must be historically accurate and fitting.

Required information: (use the research provided in class or look online)

1. Name: Include figure's full name as well as any known nicknames.
2. Status Update: In the box labeled "What are you doing?" you will write a status update that fits your figure and tells us something about him /her that makes him different than other figures in the golden age of Islam. Try to find something unique that person did and use it in their status.
3. Friends: Your figure interacted with many people. If he/she had our technology back then, he/she may have been friends with some of them on Facebook, feel free to include both friends and enemies. You must list at least 6 people and include how the two know each other, i.e. friend, enemy, father, brother, sister, family, rival etc. and why they might be friends.
4. Groups: On Facebook people often join groups. These can be fan clubs, people who have something in common, people attending a certain event, really, they can be just about anything. Make up three groups that your figure might have been a part of, use historical information to justify your groups.
5. Likes/Dislikes: People on Facebook often "Like" or "Dislike" things they see on the internet. Sometimes these are products companies sell, sometimes they are ideas, mottos, slogans, pictures, videos, or anything else that people put on the internet. You are to think up three things that your trapper might have "Liked" and "Disliked".
6. The Wall: The part of your figure's profile that will take up the most space is the wall. The wall includes things that might have been written by the figure themselves as well as things their friends or enemies might have written for them to see. There are three sections on the wall.
  - At least, one must be written as if your figure wrote it. Choose something that was a major event in that person's life, write three sentences pretending to be the figure and telling your friends about the event.
  - At least one wall entry should be written as if by someone on the friends list inquiring about the figure or commenting on his/her wall post.
  - You can choose what to write on the third post but it must be historically significant in some way.

**REMEMBER: Each post on your wall must have a title and be written in complete sentences.
